

The Story of a Turret Captain

Promotion in the Navy comes quickly to those who qualify for higher ratings. In March 1899 A. F. Nilsen enlisted in the Navy as an Apprentice Seaman, 3rd class. In April 1907 he was rated Chief Turret Captain. His pay today is $105.76 per month.

A man's life — among men!

Reel them off—"Rio," Gibraltar, Ceylon, Yokohama—all the great ports of the world—are they only places on the map to you—or are they ports where you've gone sailing in from the high seas with every eye along the shore turned admiringly on your big ship—your ship! Every ocean has a United States ship sailing for some port worth seeing.

If you've any call in you for a full life—join, and color all your years ahead with memories of things worth seeing—with knowledge worth having—with an inexhaustible fund of sea tales and adventures picked up ashore and afloat that will make you a welcome man in any company.

Work?—sure, and a man's work it is, among men.

Play?—well, rather, with a bunch of men who know how to play. These comrades of yours carry in their ears the sounds of great world cities, of booming guns, of swashing seas—sounds you will share with them and that will never die away.

And when you come home, you'll face life ashore with level eyes—for Uncle Sam trains in self-reliance as well as self-respect. The Navy builds straight men—no mollycoddles.

Enlist for two years. Excellent opportunities for advancement. Four weeks holidays with pay each year. Shore leave to see inland sights at ports visited. Men always learning. Good food and first uniform outfit free. Pay begins the day you enlist. Get full information from your nearest recruiting station. If you do not know where the nearest recruiting station is, ask your Postmaster. He knows.

Why Suffer?

Mrs. J. A. Cox, of Anderson, W. Va., writes: "My daughter... suffered terribly. She could not turn in bed... the doctors gave her up, and we brought her home to die. She had suffered so much at... time. Having heard of Cardui, we got it for her."

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

"In a few days, she began to improve," Mrs. Cox continues, "and had no trouble at... Cardui cured her, and we sing its praises everywhere. We receive many thousands of similar letters every year, telling of the good Cardui has done for women who suffer from complaints so common to their sex. It should do you good, too. Try Cardui."

"A SHOCK TO THE COUNTRY"

SENATOR HITCHCOCK SO CHARACTERIZES SENATOR KNOX'S ATTACK ON TREATY.

"INSANE FOREIGN POLICY"

"Amendment or Defeat of the Treaty Would Be Commercial and Financial Disaster for America," Says Nebraska Senator.

Washington (Special) — Declaring that any amendment to the treaty of peace, good or bad, reasonable or unreasonable, means the defeat of the treaty, with all its disastrous consequences, Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska made a powerful speech in the senate today urging that the treaty be ratified without delay and without amendment.

Referring to the recent speech of Senator McCumber, republican, of North Dakota, who voted against the Shantung amendment in the foreign relations committee, Senator Hitchcock said:

"He has shown that the proposed amendment, instead of helping China, deprives her of the benefit of the promises and concessions the United States has exacted from Japan. He has shown that Japan is already in possession of the German rights, privileges and leaseholds. He has also shown that Great Britain and France are under pledge to Japan to stand by her in her claim, and he has challenged the supporters of the proposed amendment to show how China can possibly be benefited unless, when we reject Japan's promises, we propose to go to war with her and drive her out of Shantung for the benefit of China. 'I think the senator from North Dakota conclusively demonstrated the folly of the proposed amendment as far as it concerns China and the danger that it involves to the United States.'"

Senator Hitchcock then explained the inevitable results if the senate should vote in favor of the Shantung amendment or any other. He said that one of two things would happen—either the president would refuse to go further with the treaty, or he would have to submit the amendment to the nations associated with the United States in the war.

"Does any one believe," asked the senator, "that the other nations would accept the Shantung amendment?" He pointed out that Great Britain has already ratified the treaty and is under pledge to Japan with reference to Shantung; that France is soon to ratify the treaty and is under the same pledge to Japan.

"Does any one suppose that Japan herself would submit to such a humiliation before the eyes of the world?" asked Senator Hitchcock. "The answer is simple," he asserted. "We would find ourselves out in the cold, isolated from the rest of the world."

"What, then will the United States do? What will those American statesmen propose who stand for this method of killing the treaty? Some of them will say that congress can pass a joint resolution declaring a state of peace with Germany. Others say the United States can negotiate a separate and independent treaty of peace with Germany. Those who talk this way evidently have no conception of the enormous benefits and advantages which the United States derive from this treaty which we wrung from Germany at the cannon's mouth. Neither have they any conception of the difficulties involved in negotiating a new treaty with Germany to establish the terms of peace and settle the controversies of the war."

"To my mind it would be suicidal for the United States to throw away the advantages and benefits provided in this treaty. It would be disastrous commercially and financially. It would put us at an enormous disadvantage in our international relations not only with Germany, but with these nations which we would thus desert. They would remain bound together by ties of mutual interest. They would enjoy the benefits of the treaty and would not be slow to take every advantage of them. They would resent our desertion."

"Up to this point I have discussed the possible defeat of the treaty by means of proposed amendments to it. That is the real program and hope of the majority of the committee on foreign relations. It is for that purpose that the treaty has been locked up in cold storage for so many weeks. The enemies of the league of nations in the senate are not many compared to its friends, but they control the committee. They have felt justified in retaining the treaty in the committee, holding useless hearings and making killing amendments with the full knowledge that amendments would beat the treaty just as effectively as a refusal to ratify."

"A few, a very few, senators have declared that they would vote against the treaty because of the league of nations, but it has remained for the senator from Pennsylvania (Mr. Knox) to declare boldly against our participation in the treaty settlement."

"To say that he has amazed the country is to put it mildly—he has shocked the country."

"Strangely enough, after months of

POTATO WART IS MOST DANGEROUS

TENNESSEE GROWERS LOOK FOR SUSPECTS AND SEND THEM TO COUNTY AGENT.

MAKES TUBERS WORTHLESS

Trouble Causes Decay, and Infects the Soil—Brought to United States from Europe, where Great Loss Was Wrought—Spreads Through Seed.

Potato wart, one of the most dangerous diseases to Irish potatoes, has been found in the United States. For this reason Tennessee farmers and potato growers are urged to be on the watch for its appearance.

The illustration gives one a good idea of what the wart looks like. They are rough spongy outgrowths of varying sizes and are produced on the tubers, especially at the eyes. They are light brown at first, but become black as they age and decay. Many times this disease will make all of the potatoes in a hill worthless. It does not attack vines above the ground.

Although no potato wart has been found to this date in Tennessee, it is feared that it will be found during the harvesting season. Its spread is anticipated through infected seed. Potato specialists and others from the College of Agriculture, Division of Extension, and United States Department of Agriculture, are on the lookout for this disease. They ask all growers to assist them. Carry all suspicious looking tubers to the county agricultural agent who will send them to the specialists for examination.

Potato wart has caused severe losses in Ireland and other parts of Europe. In some places the soil has become so infected that the growing of potatoes for at least a time, has been abandoned. Infected soil remains contaminated for a number of years.
